

ABSTRACT

A recording material for holograms includes a metal oxide porous body with an oxygen donor substance in the pores. In addition, a method manufactures a recording material for holograms that include a metal oxide porous body with an oxygen donor substance in the pores. The method includes forming a metal oxide porous body from a metal oxide precursor, and supplying an oxygen donor substance to the pores of the metal oxide porous body.